How to complete the Application for Planning Permit form

The information needed on the Application for Planning Permit form is required under section 47 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 and regulations 15 and 38 of the Planning and Environment Regulations 2005.

In the form, 'council' refers to the designated responsible authority for the application. This is usually your local council but can sometimes be another body. Ask the council if in doubt.

Obtaining a copy of the Application for Planning Permit form

You can obtain a paper copy from your local council, or access an electronic copy of the form from www.dse.vic.gov.au/planning or your local council website.

Access to the electronic files on these websites requires installation of the free Adobe Acrobat Reader software. A link to download the software is available on the website.

Filling in the application form

You can fill in the application form a number of ways:

By hand: Complete the form in pen. Please print clearly.

Electronically: You can complete the form electronically by clicking on or typing into the response fields on the form. You can use the tab key to move between response fields.

You can complete the form electronically and print it but you cannot save the form with the information you enter if you open the form with the free Adobe Acrobat Reader software.

To save the information that you enter into the form response fields, please open the form with, and complete the form using Adobe Acrobat 6.0 Professional or Adobe Acrobat 6.0 Standard, or later versions, instead of Adobe Acrobat Reader.

How do you work out whether you need a planning permit and what information to provide?

There are different ways to work out whether you need a planning permit before you fill out the form. Council's planners can explain the reason why you need a permit and the terms.

Initial enquiries: telephone or visit the council to discuss your proposal. Initial enquiries are generally informal and unrecorded.

Pre-application meeting: by arranging a formal pre-application meeting with a council planning officer, you can obtain advice on whether and why you need a permit, matters to consider and information to be submitted with the application.

Checklists: most councils have checklists identifying information required to be submitted with specific applications, e.g. multi-dwelling development, advertising signage, removal of native vegetation. Checklists are usually available on council websites or from their planning section.

Council contact details are given at the end of the application form.

Consider getting professional advice. Planning assessment and decision-making are sophisticated processes that involve concepts such as respecting neighbourhood character, achieving good urban design outcomes, protecting reasonable amenity and enhancing heritage significance. Council and the community are looking for proposals that will meet their expectations. Getting the right professional advice at the beginning will help develop your ideas so you meet council's expectations and your objectives.
1. Has there been a pre-application meeting with a council officer?

   - Yes
   - No

   If yes, with whom: BRIAN SMITHERS

The land

Planning permits relate to the use and development of the land. It is important that accurate, clear and concise details of the land are provided with the application.

How is land identified?

Land is commonly identified by a street address, but sometimes this alone does not provide an accurate identification of the relevant parcel of land relating to an application. Make sure you also provide the formal land description - the lot and plan number or the crown, section and parish details (as applicable) for the subject site. This information is shown on the title.

Address of the land. Complete the Street Address and one of the Formal Land Descriptions.

Street Address

- Street No.: 26
- Street Name: PLANMORE AVE
- Suburb/Locality: HAWTHORN
- Postcode: 3122

Formal Land Description

- Lot No.: 27
- on Lodged Plan, Title Plan or Subdivision Plan No.: LP 4976
- OR
- Crown Allotment No.: 0000
- Section No.: 0000
- Parish Name: 0000

Why is title information required?

Title information confirms the location and dimensions of the land specified in the planning application and any obligations affecting what can be done on or with the land.

As well as describing the land, a full copy of the title will include a diagram or plan of the land and will identify any encumbrances, caveats and notices. (See part 8 of this guide for information about encumbrances, caveats and notices).

What title information is required?

The title information accompanying your application must include a 'register search statement' and the title diagram, which together make up the title. In addition, any relevant associated title documents, known as ‘instruments’, (eg. restrictive covenants), must also be provided. (See Part 8 of this guide for more information about the types of instruments that are required with your application).

Some titles have not yet been converted by Land Registry into an electronic register search statement format. In these earlier types of titles, the diagram and encumbrances are often detailed on the actual title, rather than in separate plans or instruments.

Why is ‘current’ title information required?

It is important that you attach a current copy of the title for each individual parcel of land forming the subject site. ‘Current’ title information accurately provides all relevant and up-to-date information.

Copies of title documents can be obtained from Land Registry: Level 10, 570 Bourke Street, Melbourne; 03 8636 2010; www.land.vic.gov.au - go direct to “titles & property certificates”.

How should land be described?

You need to describe, in general terms, the way the land is used now, including the activities, buildings, structures and works that exist (e.g. single dwelling, 24 dwellings in a three-storey building, medical centre with three practitioners and 8 car parking spaces, vacant land).

Describe how the land is used and developed now.

- Single dwelling.
Plan of the land. Please attach to your application a plan of the existing conditions of the land. Check with the local council for the quantity, scale and level of detail required.

It is also helpful to include photographs of the existing conditions.

The proposal

For what use, development or other matter do you require a permit?

Why is it important to describe the proposal correctly?

The application requires a description of what you want to do with the land. You must describe how the land will be used or developed as a result of the proposal. It is important that you understand the reasons why you need a permit in order to suitably describe the proposal. By providing an accurate description of the proposal, you will avoid unnecessary delays associated with amending the description at a later date.

Planning schemes use specific definitions for different types of use and development. Contact the council planning office at an early stage in preparing your application to ensure that you use the appropriate terminology and provide the required details.

For what use, development or other matter do you require a permit?

Read How to complete the Application for Planning Permit form if you need help in describing your proposal.

Construction of two, double-storey dwellings and construction of two new crossovers.

How do planning schemes affect proposals?

A planning scheme sets out policies and requirements for the use, development and protection of land. There is a planning scheme for every municipality in Victoria. Development of land includes the construction of a building, carrying out works, subdividing land or buildings and displaying signs.

Proposals must comply with the planning scheme provisions in accordance with Clause 61.05 of the planning scheme. Provisions may relate to the State Planning Policy Framework (SPPF), the Local Planning Policy Framework (LPPF), zones, overlays, particular and general provisions. You can access the planning scheme by either contacting council's planning department or by visiting www.dse.vic.gov.au and selecting Planning Schemes Online.

You can obtain a planning certificate to establish planning scheme details about your property. A planning certificate identifies the zones and overlays that apply to the land, but it does not identify all of the provisions of the planning scheme that may be relevant to your application. Planning certificates for land in metropolitan areas can be obtained by visiting www.land.vic.gov.au. In rural areas, contact your local council to obtain a planning certificate.

What additional information should you provide to support the proposal?

You should provide sufficient supporting material with the application to describe the proposal in enough detail for the council to make a decision. It is important that copies of all plans and information submitted with the application are legible.

There may be specific application requirements set out in the planning scheme for the use or development you propose. The application should demonstrate how these have been addressed or met.

Attach additional information providing details of the proposal, including:

- Any information required by the planning scheme, requested by council or outlined in a council planning permit checklist.
- Plans showing the layout and details of the proposal.
- If required, a description of the likely effect of the proposal (eg. traffic, noise, environmental impacts).

For applications with extensive supporting information, it may be useful to include a list of information accompanying the application. This list will provide you with a useful record if, at any stage, you substitute later versions of these documents.
The example below illustrates a suitable list.

8 Encumbrances on title.

What is an encumbrance?
An ‘encumbrance’ is a formal obligation on the land, with the most common type being a ‘mortgage’. Other common examples of encumbrances include:

- Restrictive Covenants: A ‘restrictive covenant’ is a written agreement between owners of land restricting the use or development of the land for the benefit of others, (eg. a limit of one dwelling or limits on types of building materials to be used).

- Section 173 Agreements: A ‘section 173 agreement’ is a contract between an owner of the land and the council which sets out limitations on the use or development of the land.

- Easements: An ‘easement’ gives rights to other parties to use the land or provide for services or access on, under or above the surface of the land.

- Building Envelopes: A ‘building envelope’ defines the development boundaries for the land.

Aside from mortgages, the above encumbrances can potentially limit or even prevent certain types of proposals.

What documents should I check to find encumbrances?
Encumbrances are identified on the title (register search statement) under the header ‘encumbrances, caveats and notices’. The actual details of an encumbrance are usually provided in a separate document (instrument) associated with the title. Sometimes encumbrances are also marked on the title diagram or plan, such as easements or building envelopes.

What about caveats and notices?
A ‘caveat’ is a record of a claim from a party to an interest in the land. Caveats are not normally relevant to planning applications as they typically relate to a purchaser, mortgagee or chargee claim, but can sometimes include claims to a covenant or easement on the land. These types of caveats may affect your proposal.

Other less common types of obligations may also be specified on title in the form of ‘notices’. These may have an effect on your proposal, such as a notice that the building on the land is listed on the Heritage Register.

What information should I provide with my application regarding encumbrances, caveats and notices?
Part 3 of the application form requires you to attach a copy of the title. Check the title to see if any of the types of encumbrances mentioned above are listed. If so, you must submit a copy of the document (instrument) describing that encumbrance. Mortgages do not need to be provided with planning applications.

Note
Council must not grant a permit that authorises anything that would result in a breach of a registered restrictive covenant (sections 61(4) and 62 of the Planning and Environment Act 1987). Contact council and/or an appropriately qualified person for advice.

✓ Yes, contact council for advice on how to proceed before continuing with this application.
What happens if the proposal contravenes an encumbrance on title?

Encumbrances may affect or limit your proposal or prevent it from proceeding. Section 61(4) of the Planning and Environment Act 1987 for example, prevents a council from granting a permit if it would result in a breach of a registered restrictive covenant. If the proposal contravenes any encumbrance, contact the council for advice on how to proceed.

You may be able to modify your proposal to respond to the issue. If not, separate procedures exist to change or remove the various types of encumbrances from the title. The procedures are generally quite involved and if the encumbrance relates to more than the subject property, the process will include notice to the affected party.

You should seek advice from an appropriately qualified person, such as a solicitor, if you need to interpret the effect of an encumbrance or if you seek to amend or remove an encumbrance.

Do you require a receipt for the permit fee?

Indicate if you require a receipt, because they are often not issued unless requested.
Contact, applicant and owner details

This section provides information about the permit applicant, the owner of the land and the person who should be contacted about any matters concerning the permit application.

The contact: in order to avoid any confusion, the council will communicate only with this person, who is also responsible for providing further details. The contact may be a professional adviser (e.g. architect or planner) engaged to prepare or manage the application. To ensure prompt communications, contact details and the preferred method of communication should be given.
